Relax: A guide to everyday health decisions with more facts and less worry /
Caulfield

In Relax, health policy expert Tim Caulfield takes us through a regular day and shows the underlying science behind our actions and habits. What he reveals is that we make decisions that are based, to a lesser or greater extent, on misinformation and many of the things we believe to be safer, healthier or better, simply aren't. With solid grounding in reliable scientific findings, he points to a less stressful way forward--which means we can all afford to relax a lot more.
