Collaborative Practice Programs

Professional Practice

Professional Practice in SJCG is guided by the Professional Advisory Council, Professional Practice Leaders, Quality Practice Councils, the Collaborative Practice Team, as well as SJCG Quality, Safety & Risk Structure. These forums and resources, support SJCG to provide accountable professional practice in clinical environments, facilitate client and family-centred care, foster collaborative team relationships and support research and evidence-based practice.

Clinical Innovation & Client Safety

Through collaboration with staff members, clinical learning and practice provides mentorship, education, professional and clinical skill development to support the implementation of best practice strategies into direct client-centred care. Client safety and risk provides leadership in risk management and client safety in alignment with the organization's strategic plan, current legislation and applicable performance standards.

Infection Prevention & Control

The Infection Prevention and Control (IPAC) Program at SJCG was developed from evidence-based practices and procedures. It involves many aspects of keeping our clients, staff, and visitors safe with surveillance for infectious diseases, commitment to a hand hygiene program, education, communication, and monitoring outbreaks. We strive to prevent and reduce the spread of infections between health care workers, clients, and visitors, while maintaining a focus on providing our clients with the highest standard of care.
